III DC.

There are twenty four students in the class. Three of them in an outside hostel, five students in the college hostel. In the beginning of the academic year, Houssi lost her father. She was attached to him a lot. She is the only elder one, mother is sick too. So the responsibility to look after her family is now on her shoulders. This made her very fearful. Out of the six students in the college hostel, only two are taking their studies seriously. Do all the works given to them properly. Other take leave often, come to the class late. They say some lame excuses as usual. The students who stay at the outside hostel are actually a 'menace' to the class. St other students also complains about their talks and behaviour in the class. Day scholars are always fed up with these students. One got engaged last year got married. These students had to pay condonation to write the 5th sem exams as they do not have enough attendence. Out of the two nuns, one sister is always sick. She is not good at studies as they joined the course after a long span. The other sister can study well but often did not perform well as she is more oriented to do the duties at the convent. There are many groups in the class. like average, or middle class, studious and rich ones, non-studious and poor. Except the hostlers who stays outside all groups come together when need arises to work. do some activity in the department.

II DC

There are only six students in the class - only two are good at studies and work hard. the rest always come to the below average category. If there were many students in the class these students may go unnoticed. Now they are in the ~~for~~ fore front to do the activities of the dept, and work together as a single unit. Except three students, ~~all~~ ie, the other three are from average or below average economically and they are fearsome too. They become shy to speak to their teachers. As there are no others to talk for them, now they communicate all their issues to the teachers.

AKSHAYA ANIL

She is a soft spoken, energetic student. She is very attentive in the class. She is good with academics and she is hardworking in her personal life also.

AKSHAYA MANIMOHAN

She is very energetic as well as enthusiastics. She is involved every activities. She listens the classes very well. She ask doubts and clear it. She is very responsive and active in the class.

ANAGHA SHAJU

Very deligent student, she has knowledge about little things. She is very well behaved and very responsive & attendive in the class. she scores well in both academic and nonacademic levels

ANICHRIS JOSHY

She is a future oriented girl and very responsible. She is having great leadership qualities. She is very attentive in the class Sometimes she could not manage time.

ARDRA P SUNIL

She is very polite, highly talented, listens class, come fooward when ask participation. She is little shy in the first, later become very active.

ARDRA S

She is a very happy and energet student. She is very confident and talkative. She express her ideas and thoughts. She is into modelling, fashion, very activety participate in extracurricular activities

Eava

She is little silent, but studious too
She listen to the class very well. She need to be more active. She is very creative as well as artistic. She should have some more confidena

Mafsina

Mafsina has attended my online classes. She had pregnancy issues but she has well presented the

MENTORING REPORT 2022-23

Name of the Mentor: Darly Mathew

Mentor Mentee Ratio: 1:25 (BA English)

In the academic year 2022-2023, I was the mentor for 25 students of first year under graduate English students. We the department of English conducts various programmes for the holistic development of our students. We engage in personal interactions with our mentees to understand more about their personal needs. The mentees were cooperative and showed ample interest in interactive sessions. Most of the mentees were hardworking and ambitious, still some needs extra attention in their academic arena. Students who come from dysfunctional families were able to consult a clinical psychologist in the college itself. I also tried to ensure that the mentee's performance is constantly monitored and if necessary, the parents are also informed about the progress of their ward.

Class: II

Mentor : Dr.Meenu Jacob

Mentor Ratio:1:16

Free time of the students used for the mentoring session. I contacted them personally in two times in each semester and provided general instructions related to academics and enquired their studies, family and other matters related to the students. Majority students were very active in sports and participated in various competition held in both the college and university

Class: II DC

Mentor : Jose James

Mentor Ratio: 1:17

Through my in depth interaction with them, I understood some students facing financial backwardness. Hence, the department of History provided financial assistance to those poor students.

Moreover, we visited the houses of some economically backward students and offered moral and financial support to them.

Class: III DC

Mentor Reports : Libin Francis

Mentor Ratio : 1:22

Many students came to us sharing with their personal and academic problems. I've consulted with the senior teachers in the department with some problems.

There were a number of family problems faced by students. Some of the cases were directed to the professional counsellor

Class: III

Mentor : Ms Smina M B

Mentor Ratio: 1:21

The main problems faced by the students were the lack of orientation for higher studies. Many of the students did not have any plans for the post-UG studies. Some of the students even had the plan to get married soon.

Another issue prevailed in their class was the conflicts between some groups in the class out of personal issues. The issue affected the bonding of the class and its coherence. Mentoring helped to resolve the issue to an extent. When they were passed out, it is learnt that they parted as good friends.

There are 9 students in this batch. All of them are good at studies. They enjoyed and studied in a systematic way. They showed excellence academic performance. Social status of the students were average and below average level. One or two students of the batch is above average level.

DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS

MENTORING REPORT 2022-2023

MENTOR: Ms. Amala Mary George

Mentor-Mentee Ratio: 1:9 (I MSc Students)

All the students belong to the average learners category. Two among them have great calibre to secure a bright future. One student has some trouble learning because of the time gap in pursuing the course. One student has difficulty in presenting the answers during exams. Rest of the students have to be pressured to learn.

Weekly test papers are conducted and evaluated for all students. Peer teaching is promoted in the class for clearing the doubts. Students are encouraged to clarify the doubts with the respective subject teachers.

MENTOR: Dr. Vijitha Mukundan

Mentor-Mentee Ratio: 1:17 (II MSc Students)

All the students were met personally and their queries were discussed in detail. Some students found that the MSc topics were a little more difficult to understand than the first two semesters. They were given proper guidance for studying, especially the theory subjects. They were given proper guidance and methodology to study efficiently. Few students were asked to make a timetable and follow it strictly for studying and were asked to allocate fixed minimum time for mobile phones. Four among them were studious and worked hard.

MENTOR: Ms. Athira V

Mentor-Mentee Ratio: 1:4 (III BSc Students)

All four of them are introverts but they try their part though they are all very slow paced learners. They try out hard with the help of their mentors and are cooperative with every teaching method offered. All the students were met personally. Students have shared their anxieties and worries about pandemic situations. However, they got adjusted to the whole situation with personal meetings, counseling and motivation talks. Few slow learners improved a lot and were able to perform well in studies and scored good in exams.
