Abstract

The modern world is the world of technology and to live and satisfy ones belly one is bound to use this technology. It is true that technology has made the world a global village but it is also a bitter fact that sometimes it proves a monster for a human being. The paper "Online Sexual Coercion and Extortion of Children and Safety in India during Covid19 Pandemic" is a study of Child pornography, Cyber bullying, content risk and online grooming. The parental control techniques and other online possible safety measures would be near to foundation of the paper. The paper will draw a scale of comparison between Indian and other south Asian countries and some European countries. The comparative part would be based on the different laws made by different Asian and European countries for the online security of children. The Indian IT Act 2000 2008 and other acts by other countries of the world would be studied and checked if they are still relevant. Role of law in India against the heinous crime of online child sextortion would be thoroughly examined under the banner of juvenile justice and Indian constitution. The inculcation of case studies would make the paper more thought provoking and exact.

Key Words: Online Child Sextortion, Child pornography, Cyber bullying, online grooming, Covid19 Pandemic.
